

USC DEPARTMENT OF PSYCHOLOGY, COLUMBIA, SC, 29208

Interested in earning a Ph.D. applying statistics?

Quantitative Psychology at the University of South Carolina is seeking students interested in statistics and psychology. Graduate Assistantships are available.

To view additional information about the program please visit:

<http://www.psych.sc.edu/quantarea.html>

Applicants are encouraged to contact potential mentors before applying through the USC Graduate School.

Areas of study:

Possible research areas include, but are not limited to, longitudinal data, multi-level modeling, mediation analysis, individual differences, and IRT. Areas of application include neuroimaging and prevention science.

Courses include:

Multivariate Analysis of Behavioral Data
Computational Methods for Psychology
Structural Equation Modeling
Statistical Mediation Analysis
Longitudinal Data Analysis
Item Response Theory
Multi-level Modeling

Faculty:

Amanda Fairchild, PhD
Brian Habing, PhD
Patrick Malone, PhD
John Richards, PhD
Svetlana Shinkareva, PhD
M. Lee VanHorn, PhD
Doug Wedell, PhD