

B.Y.O.P. (Bring Your Own ideas about Pedagogy)

A Feminist Brown Bag Series

What is feminist pedagogy?

This brown bag series will provide FOUR opportunities to explore that question in collaboration with other feminist faculty and graduate students from across campus.

Designed to promote conversation among people who care about teaching and how it relates to feminist principles, these sessions will provide opportunities to exchange ideas, strategies, and resources. Each will focus on a particular question relating to feminist pedagogy and include a brief presentation by a member of the Women's & Gender Studies core faculty.

All four sessions will take place in the:

Hollings Special Collections Library

(entry via the main floor of Cooper Library).

We will provide sodas, water, coffee, and desserts. You bring a brown bag lunch.

For more information, contact Dr. Kate Adams (adamsk@sc.edu)

Fall 2011

Tuesday, Sept. 20th, 2011

12-1:30 pm

Knowledge, Power, & Authority in the Classroom, with

Dr. Deborah Billings, Arnold School of Public Health & WGST

Wednesday, November 9, 2011

12-1:30 pm

Teaching The Intersectional Approach, with Dr. Lynn Weber, Psychology & WGST

Spring 2012

Tuesday, February 7, 2011

12-1:30 pm

Teaching and Social Justice, with Dr. Ed Madden English & WGST

Wednesday, April 11, 2011

12-1:30 pm

The Inter/Multidisciplinary Classroom, with Dr. Drucilla K. Barker Anthropology & WGST

Sponsored by Women's & Gender Studies, College of Arts & Sciences